Thoughts for the Turn of the Year

Contemplating the season of Harvest when we reap what we sow, I thought of the times when we reap not what we have planted in this earth, but what we bring to fruition by our actions and spoken words. Following this train of thought, I recalled reading the words of one Wm Penn, an influential American from the formative days of the United States, who wrote "The Fruits of Solitude" in which he made the following suggestions for changing our lives for the better:

- ⇒ Think twice before speaking once ...... and you will speak twice as well.
- ⇒ Rarely promise ...... but consistently deliver.
- ⇒ Do good with what you have ..... or it will do you no good.
- $\Rightarrow$  Love is the hardest lesson ..... for that reason we should try hardest to learn it.

Perhaps as the days shorten and the nights grow longer we might reflect on these words and possibly use them to the advantage of ourselves and those with whom we come into contact.

Bearing the foregoing in mind, no matter how good our intentions or how hard we try, we all fall by the wayside at some point and could well be heard to say:

"Oh God of second chances and new beginnings - here I am again!"

You will never plough a field if you only turn it over in your mind. Irish Proverb

NOTHING IS LOST FOREVER

The waking earth at Springtime Reminds us it is true That nothing ever really dies That is not born anew.

So trust God's all-wise wisdom And doubt the Father never For in His Heavenly Kingdom There is nothing lost forever.
